

FUN FACT

Red mangroves are tropical trees that thrive in conditions most trees could never tolerate. They live in salty coastal waters, surviving by excluding salt when they uptake water.

FUN FACT

Red mangroves are tropical trees that thrive in conditions most trees could never tolerate. They live in salty coastal waters, surviving by excluding salt when they uptake water.

FUN FACT

Green sea turtles are an endangered species and the only herbivore among sea turtle species. They are also one of the world's largest sea turtles, weighing up to 400 pounds.

FUN FACT

Green sea turtles are an endangered species and the only herbivore among sea turtle species. They are also one of the world's largest sea turtles, weighing up to 400 pounds.

FUN FACT

Bald cypress are deciduous trees, dropping their leaves every winter to regrow in the spring. Cypress trees grow in water and have small wispy leaves.

FUN FACT

Bald cypress are deciduous trees, dropping their leaves every winter to regrow in the spring. Cypress trees grow in water and have small wispy leaves.

FUN FACT

Purple gallinules are omnivorous but typically eat more plants than animals. Gallinules construct their nest on floating vegetation or anchored in emergent vegetation.

FUN FACT

Purple gallinules are omnivorous but typically eat more plants than animals. Gallinules construct their nest on floating vegetation or anchored in emergent vegetation.

FUN FACT

These long- legged pink birds were once common in Florida. In the 1800s they were hunted for their striking feathers. The Migratory Bird Treaty Act was signed into law in 1918 and stopped the plume trade. Flamingos can still be found in South Florida.

FUN FACT

These long- legged pink birds were once common in Florida. In the 1800s they were hunted for their striking feathers. The Migratory Bird Treaty Act was signed into law in 1918 and stopped the plume trade. Flamingos can still be found in South Florida.

FUN FACT

The manatee is a large threatened marine mammal. Also referred to as sea cows, manatees eat about 150 pounds of plants a day.

FUN FACT

The manatee is a large threatened marine mammal. Also referred to as sea cows, manatees eat about 150 pounds of plants a day.

FUN FACT

Spoonbills get their name from the pink color of their feathers and unique spoon-shape of their beak. Using their beak, they sweep from side to side and rely on lightning fast reflexes to catch their prey.

FUN FACT

Spoonbills get their name from the pink color of their feathers and unique spoon-shape of their beak. Using their beak, they sweep from side to side and rely on lightning fast reflexes to catch their prey.

FUN FACT

The Everglades is the largest subtropical wetland ecosystem in North America and the largest mangrove ecosystem in The Western Hemisphere.

FUN FACT

The Everglades is the largest subtropical wetland ecosystem in North America and the largest mangrove ecosystem in The Western Hemisphere.

FUN FACT

Great egrets are found near fresh or salt water. They feed in shallow waters and spear their prey with their sharp beaks.

FUN FACT

Great egrets are found near fresh or salt water. They feed in shallow waters and spear their prey with their sharp beaks.

FUN FACT

The Everglades is a national treasure and home to nearly 2,000 plant and animal species. The Everglades provides all of these species and South Florida with clean drinking water.

FUN FACT

The Everglades is a national treasure and home to nearly 2,000 plant and animal species. The Everglades provides all of these species and South Florida with clean drinking water.

FUN FACT

Great egrets are found near fresh or salt water. They feed in shallow waters and spear their prey with their sharp beaks.

FUN FACT

Purple gallinules are omnivorous but typically eat more plants than animals. Gallinules construct their nest on floating vegetation or anchored in emergent vegetation.

FUN FACT

These long-legged pink birds were once common in Florida. In the 1800s they were hunted for their striking feathers. The Migratory Bird Treaty Act was signed into law in 1918 and stopped the plume trade. Flamingos can still be found in South Florida.

FUN FACT

The Everglades is a national treasure and home to nearly 2,000 plant and animal species. The Everglades provides all of these species and South Florida with clean drinking water.

FUN FACT

Spoonbills get their name from the pink color of their feathers and unique spoon-shape of their beak. Using their beak, they sweep from side to side and rely on lightning fast reflexes to catch their prey.

FUN FACT

The manatee is a large threatened marine mammal. Also referred to as sea cows, manatees eat about 150 pounds of plants a day.

FUN FACT

Bald cypress are deciduous trees, dropping their leaves every winter to regrow in the spring. Cypress trees grow in water and have small wispy leaves.

FUN FACT

Red mangroves are tropical trees that thrive in conditions most trees could never tolerate. They live in salty coastal waters, surviving by excluding salt when they uptake water.

FUN FACT

Green sea turtles are an endangered species and the only herbivore among sea turtle species. They are also one of the world's largest sea turtles, weighing up to 400 pounds.